FOOTBALL NIGHT ON DISCORD!

The Euro Cup 2021 has been a roller coaster of emotions for many spectators around the globe, and it was no different on the night of 2nd July 2021. The common interest in football helped bring together the participants from different schools as the nail-biting match went into penalties. Despite being miles away from each other, there was no dearth of interaction as participants gathered on discord, where the quarter final between Spain and Switzerland was being streamed. Passionate conversations about the sport garnished with a little bit of banter ensured that the delegates had a great time.

ECONOMICS AND FINANCE

Day 2 resumed with even more fervour than the day before as the delegates jumped right into a series of colloquies revolving around issues that were raised the day prior. In addition, there were fresh debates about currency exchange and far out rate regimes, A statement disclosed by India notifying the committee of the cessation of its economy due to its aborning state led to a press conference where the delegates attempted to reason out with the tumultuous call. After a productive UNMOD session discussing the resolution and the formation of a unanimous bloc, the committee terminated the second day on a light note with a convivial session of personal confessions and dares.

INTERNATIONAL PEACE & SECURITY

Day 2 was packed with new challenges for the enthusiastic delegates. Debates on sub-China conflict, subsidiary organs, port securities, nuclear organs, Cyber security to formation of a unanimous directive were some of them. During the crisis, there were many allegations raised on the USA, India, Australia, China, and the UK regarding their untrustworthy conduct, which eventually turned into a scenario where World War 4 seemed to be inevitable. It was now upon the committee to decide how to tackle the ISIS and inter-state conflict, as terrorist organizations like the ISIS have been powerful and have imposed a major threat to international peace and security. Solving the conflict was now the ultimate priority of the committee. After the moderated caucus, 4v4 debates, and round robins, it was clear that every nation was attempting to secure their country's future and was working for a global cause. While some delegates did not agree with the directive authored by USA, UK and Federal Government of Brazil, the unmoderated caucus brought everyone on the same page. In the end, the delegates were successful in dealing with the crisis.

REFUGEE RELIEF AND SOCIAL EQUITABILITY

Following the crisis from Day 1, the Social Equitability Committee and the Refugee Relief Committee were merged. A stream of joint action orders, press releases, and presidential statements poured in from the delegates. Next were some stormy crisis updates with fake British interviews, suspicious Sino- Iranian operations, and helpless refugees.

As delegates debated passionately and formed blocs to introduce working papers, neutral nations offered mediation. The 5th session saw the formation of two working papers with two blocs from which Working Paper 2.0 -which urged the formation of an ad- hoc organisation and the safety of the refugees- passed. This was followed by a short Motion of Entertainment for both the committees to lighten the mood.

With the crisis resolved, the delegates returned to their respective rooms. The Social Equitability Committee discussed the shortcomings of the UNHRC and the ECOSOC, while the Refugee Relief proceeded with their moderated and unmoderated caucuses. The day ended on a warm note with the EB members heartily appreciating the delegates.

“THE NEW WORLD ORDER MUST BE ESTABLISHED ON 4 PILLARS: EMPATHY, EQUITY, EFFICIENCY AND EVIDENCE.”- DELEGATE OF BRAZIL

ART AND CULTURE

After a great first day, the delegates were ready to make more progress. After the roll call, they jumped straight into an UNMOD to finalize the merged directive relating to the crisis 2.0. They celebrated their first big success as it was passed.

Right after the GSL, the committee was introduced to crisis 3.0. This crisis related to the agitation of Cherokee people of the USA, as they opposed the sale of their museum by the US Government to a private party. The crisis came to a head when a large group of ethnic Cherokees captured the Oklahoma building housing the museum and also held employees captive. Their demands were shown to the committee. The delegates then discussed about the situation in depth in an UNMOD. They came come up with solutions to talk about in their PSL.

The committee was then updated about the situation with a video of the head of the Cherokee group threatening to starve the hostages if not given back their artifacts and museum in three hours. The delegates decided to make a mandate to resolve the crisis. After the mandate was presented and the committee reverted to the GSLs, the day ended with a fun Motion of entertainment.

OUTER SPACE

“We can not make the same mistake as earth again,” stated the delegate of UAE. Day 2 was a discussion more heated than the last one; the delegates dug even further into the situation by analysing space degree mitigation degrees in depth. A crisis was dropped at the committee at the spur of the moment, increasing the tension. A supposedly pro-Russian activist interrupted the UAE prime minister with a war threat. Does World War 4 await us all? Or will the committee successfully manage to colonize a different planet for the sake of the human race? In the end, the delegate of Russia was held accountable for the damage his country had caused and the UAE delegate was granted monetary compensation.

GLOBAL HEALTH SECURITY AND INTERNET AND TECHNOLOGY

Today’s committee session started off with an unmoderated caucus to solve the doubts and problems related to double delegation in the joint crisis committee. Then the committee was established by forming the PSL. All the delegates came forward to share their respective opinions and solutions related to the crisis. Following this, a joint presidential statement related to the crisis was released by the countries of Nigeria and USA. To everyone’s surprise, another crisis was introduced after the PSLs. The “Shanghai Daily” released a report from from an unknown source stating that the Nigerian government was accusing China of helping and providing aid to the ANONYMOUS on behalf of the findings done by their Intel Agency. In an instant, the president of China released a statement telling the world that his sentiments were hurt, and he was breaking all the bureaucratic relations with the country Nigeria. Thereafter, the naive delegate of Germany, who shared the largest trading relations with China, asked the committee to suspend international rights of China. The delegate of France even stated that the committee should take control over China. After a while, the committee transitioned towards an unmoderated caucus by the discretion of the chairperson in which the delegates came up with two major directives. The directive 1.0 authored by the UAE, Nigeria, the UK, Switzerland, and Israel was introduced, discussed, and passed. Once the directives passed, the crisis was solved, and the committees passed a motion of entertainment of an anonymous chat session to conclude the day.
